

MESSAGE OF THE HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT

Being one of the strongest departments in SIBA Campus, the Department of English and Modern Languages prioritizes in making its undergraduates proficient in both spoken and written English as it is one of the primary skills required of graduates in the academic and cooperate sectors of 21st century. The department, has taken language teaching to a new level introducing creative, innovative and interactive language learning methods where learning becomes self-learning and teaching becomes facilitation of self-learning. The opportunities we have provided for undergraduates create a dynamic self-learning environment where they can interact and learn from experts from overseas as well as within the island.

IRIS is a fruitful result of this interactive and motivational learning environment. What started as a simple classroom project in creative writing hoping to encourage our undergraduates to write in into a full-fledged journal writers in English everywhere. of teaching and learning only opens a platform for English and give expression to their in English which is the undergraduate.

English has today blossomed creating a forum for creative Breaking away from a tradition canonical literature, IRIS language learners to validate own stories and communicate hallmark of a SIBA

I am thankful to our Rector, Dr. Upali M. Sedere for his visionary educational projects of which IRIS is yet another outstanding example. I also wish to thank and congratulate the Editorial Board and the undergraduates of SIBA Campus for their efforts in making IRIS a reality.
